Dear Gilad,

Welcome to the astrological journey that is your birth chart. A birth chart is a map of the sky at the time of your birth. In this report, I will analyze the unique combination of the different signs, houses, and planets which make up your birth chart, in order to help you better understand yourself, your strengths, assets, and areas of improvement. Every birth chart is quite complex, just like the human being whom it belongs to. Your personalized birth chart can be seen as a blueprint of your personality and your potential life paths. Enjoy the journey!

Sun in Aquarius

With a Sun in Aquarius, you represent the last Air sign of the zodiac. Nothing you do is ordinary. You are the rebel of the zodiac, and you leave quite an impression on those around you with your unique and unorthodox ways. Aquarius is the genius of the zodiac. Your mind retains information and then redistributes it in a way that you uniquely can call your own. You are able to rationalize and analyze complex problems, and you are always up to solving a new challenge.

Aquarius is a Fixed sign, so you can be incredibly stubborn and inflexible when it comes to your core beliefs and opinions. You will listen to what others have to say, but their judgments do little to change your mind. Once you have decided something, you stick to it -- no questions asked. You have a very progressive and futuristic mindset which leave most people confused. They may label you as “strange”, “unusual”, or full-on “weird”, but in reality it is because they fail to realize how far advanced you are compared to most other humans.

As an Aquarius, you are a brilliant humanitarian. Your goal is to do something with the influx of inspiration which comes to you on a daily basis. That is why you have a very social aura to you. You love meeting new people, belong to an organization of like-minded individuals, traveling, reading, learning, and teaching. Anything which allows you to stretch out your mental boundaries will be beneficial to your personal growth and evolvment. Your mind is always on the future, on what you can accomplish next, and on how you can leave an impact on the world.s

One of the most important things for you is to feel free. You absolutely hate feeling like you are limited, dictated, or controlled. You refuse to be labeled or to be categorized. As an Air sign, you want to be able to roam around wherever, whenever, and in whichever style you choose. You often work best on your own because you do not tolerate authority as well as most. You also serve as a leader, because people respect your strong communicative abilities -- although you sometimes are a bit too blunt and you may unintentionally hurt a few feelings.

Because you live in a world of intellect, you are not as attuned to your emotions as you could be. You view feelings as a distraction, and you would rather appear logical and indifferent than openly vulnerable and sensitive. Deep down, you do have strong emotions, and learning to get in touch with them will help you become a more wholesome individual. You will learn that there are some things in life which cannot be explained by reason -- they must simply be felt. If you allow yourself to get in touch with your intuition, and to let it guide you, you will discover a new facet of your personality which has been waiting to be explored. People will also find you to be more relatable and accessible, not on a superficial level, but on a spiritual one.

As an Aquarius, you can be somewhat of a loner. However, the friends you do have are your friends for life. Those who know you absolutely love you. When you are in a social mood, you are extremely popular, hilarious, witty, and fun. People could listen to you talk for hours. When you feel like being introverted, you withdraw and highly enjoy your alone time. You process your pain in solitude, and your friends and family may view you as detached or aloof. You are extremely loyal to them, so most of them they do not pressure you to express more than you feel comfortable saying.

Everything about you screams originality. People admire you because you seem so outwardly confident, even if you suffer from insecurities sometimes. For you, finding a true friend is just as important, if not more, as finding true love. You are not the type of person who lives life based on rules. You would rather make things up as you go. You vacillate between being the ray of sunshine everyone adores and the quiet wallflower who prefers to be holed up in their home. People will always wonder what's behind your indifferent facade. You are very intriguing.

Sun in House 4: Just like there are 12 astrological signs, there are 12 houses. Houses symbolize the specific aspect of your life where your core planetary and sign energy is likely to play out. In your birth chart, your Sun is placed in the Fourth House of the Home. Your primary energy is best expressed when it is tied to your home and family life, for those are areas of great importance to you. You direct a lot of your energy inward, and you seek to create a haven to protect you from the roughness of the outside world. You want your the interior of your home to reflect the interior of your soul. You are a comforting, generous person to those around you due to the devotion you have for serving others. Highly self-dependent, you rarely ask for others' help, which can sometimes be to your demise. Try not to let your pride get in the way of what you hope to achieve. Allow yourself to be vulnerable with those you trust. It is a gradual process, but it will only benefit you in the end. You are extremely protective and selfless with those you love... sometimes to a fault. The primal lesson in this house placement is to learn to let go of suspicions and take more chances letting people into your inner sanctuary.

Moon in Gemini

We are now at a more introspective part of your birth chart. The Sun (described above) describes your inherent personality and individuality and the way you express yourself. It is your overall essence. In Astrology, the Moon symbolizes your emotional needs and capacities. The Moon's role in your chart is to reveal your inner desires, your capacities for growth, as well as your feminine energy and your unconscious. While your Sun sign symbolizes the way you act in your daily life, and your Moon sign is your internal reaction to what is going on around you.

At the time of your birth, the Moon was in Gemini, an intellectual Air sign. This placement endows you with light-hearted, social, and extraverted energy, which is complementary to your Aquarius Sun. You can be a social butterfly at times, and people love being around your fun, unpredictable energy. You have an emotional need to satisfy your curiosity for the world around you. From an early age, you immersed yourself in books, movies, plays -- any form of expression which allowed you to widen your intellectual horizons and step out of your comfort zone. You have a strong inclination towards travel, and you hate staying in one place for too long. You want to connect with the world at large, meet people from foreign cultures, stretch your wings and fly. Change is a way of life for you, and your emotions are not likely to be very stable or constant. You abhor routine or anything that can lead to boredom -- you always seek variety.

With a Moon in Gemini, communicating is your thing. You tend to speak before you think. You go with your initial impulse -- you are not the type to always need everything to be properly planned out before hand. You have a go-with-the-flow, chill nature about you which makes people feel at ease. You make friends extremely easily, although not necessarily on a very deep level. The potential downfall of this placement is that you may come off as superficial. You get bored with people easily, and you are always on the look out for something or someone new.

You are mentally restless and this exhibits itself through nervous tension. Something always seems to be on your mind... your thoughts race around in your head so fast, and you are constantly multitasking. An important life lesson for a Lunar Gemini is learning to slow down, breathe, and collect yourself, your racing thoughts, and your fleeting emotions. You are often up in the clouds, daydreaming away. If you channel that energy into writing, you could create a masterpiece that inspires millions of people.

With a Moon in Gemini, you do not like dealing with super intense emotions. You would much rather stay on the lighter, less complicated side of life. With your Sun in Aquarius and your Moon in Gemini, you are a blend of light-hearted communication, a love for expansion, insatiable curiosity, and an airy mental inquisition. You are characterized by the ability to bring people together, to communicate your ideas in a relatable and accessible way, and to always be willing to learn, stretch your brain muscles, and create something out of nothing.

You are a very complex, intriguing individual who cannot be summed up in one sentence. As a Lunar Gemini, you can be an actor, a politician, an author, an educator, an entertainer... any profession which will allow you to blend your multiple talents and try something new will please you. Because you love variety, you may choose to have more than one job at once or change change frequently. Gemini is known as the "jack of all trades, master of none". You have a tendency to get really excited about a new project, but you sometimes lack the follow-through to complete it. Sometimes your Moon in Gemini will prompt you to give up too easily. Fight the urge of being complacent, and you can create a work of art that becomes a lasting legacy.

This placement indicates that you have trouble accepting and expressing your emotions (especially the complex or hidden ones) more openly. Do not run away from your emotions, even if you feel more comfortable with reason. You should listen to what your intuition is telling you rather than always live inside your head. It can take you a while to display your more vulnerable or sensitive side, but once you enter a committed relationship you exhibit much loyalty, generosity, and affection. The one requirement you have is that you must have personal freedom, and no one can place demands or restrictions on you. You want to feel free to fly away when you please, like a bird. If you love the person you are with, then you will always come back.

Moon in House 8: The Eighth House is traditionally known as the House of Death/Outside Resources, and it is associated with the zodiac sign Scorpio. The occult, sex, regeneration, and the unconscious are its main themes. This house placement indicates that you may have had a troublesome childhood, especially concerning your mother. Since this is the House of Death, issues regarding battles with drugs or alcohol are a possibility. This is a secretive, private House. There will be many periods where you will be introverted and introspective, withdrawing into your shell, wallowing in your deep thoughts and emotions. This placement shows that you are a natural healer. Your emotions are very deep, profound, and complex. If you study tarot cards or continue studying astrology, it will greatly benefit you and help strengthen your intuition. Although Gemini's energy is known for being extraverted and social, because your Moon in Gemini is placed in the Eighth House, you are more complex, guarded, secretive, shy, quiet and introverted than most Aquarius' with a Gemini Moon. You have extremely profound feelings, but hardly anyone will get a chance to understand how much depth exists under the surface.

Ascendant in Libra

The Ascendant is equally important as your Sun and Moon in your birth chart because it symbolizes how you appear to others. It is the first impression others have of you, before getting to know the "real" you. Being aware of your Ascendant (also known as your Rising sign) is beneficial because it can help you see yourself from an outsider's perspective. It is like a packaging of your Sun and Moon signs... a simplified version of yourself... the mask you show the world.

With your Ascendant in Libra in the 1st House (The House of the Self, the Personality) people view you as a balanced, social, and attractive individual who always says the right thing at the right time, to the right person. You are a natural charmer, and this ability will help you get what you want out of life. You usually look good; you have a natural talent for dressing well because you are intuitively aware of life's subtle aesthetics. You come off as mellow and down-to-earth. Your sensitive heart does not tolerate violent, aggressive, or chaotic situations. You often seek to bring peace and calm to your surroundings, and to add beauty to it in your own unique way (preferably artistically, through music or literature). You have a very strong sense of justice; it is likely that you will fight for the underdog.

The potential downfall of this placement is that you give the impression of being indecisive and sometimes shallow. You like to weigh out the pros and cons of a situation using your powers of reason and logic, but this may hinder your ability to make a fixed decision -- you may always be asking others for advice instead of relying on yourself. Another potential downfall of an Ascendant in Libra is that you may appear vain, detached and superficial to others, mainly for the reason that you get along with so many people and that you form a relationship with them, but not necessarily ones with much depth. Challenge yourself to dig beneath the surface.

Romantically, you come off as a charming romantic, and it is not very difficult for you to attract suitors -- the right suitors, that is a different story. You are not one to settle into a relationship unless you are sure it will last. You do not like overly clingy or possessive partners and you will rather fly solo than have to submit to such a relationship. If you do fall in love, you will do everything you can to preserve your relationship, including over-compromising yourself and your own needs. You have a tendency to bend over backwards for your partner, which is fine, but only if they too are bending over backwards for you.

Your biggest lesson with an Ascendant in Libra is to assert yourself and your needs rather than taking the backseat, and to make sure you are never being taken for granted. Your Ascendant in Libra adds balance and harmony to your deep and passionate personality. You come off as airy, social, and logical, but upon knowing you better people will discover the passion and wisdom which is evident in your approachable and powerful personality.

Sun trine Ascendant: With this harmonious planetary aspect, you are inclined to feel self-confident in your abilities, and to have a very optimistic and generous outlook on life. You are highly creative, and your imagination is one of your most useful tools. You are full of energy, but also prone to laziness. It is very important for you that your career be linked to your personal talents. Ideally, your partner would be just as passionate about life and love as you are.

Mercury in Aquarius

Mercury is the Planet of Communication, and when it is placed in Aquarius, you tend to think in a highly unconventional, rebellious, progressive, unorthodox and out-of-the-box way. You are inclined towards a career which allows you to deal with technology and innovation on a regular basis. Your mind works in such a way that not everyone understands what you see, most likely because you are so far ahead of what the majority of people see. This can sometimes lead to you feeling alienated, like a loner lost in his own complex world. However, when you find like-minded thinkers and innovators, there is no limit to the wonder that you can create. This is an excellent placement for entrepreneurs, humanitarians and thought-provoking creators.

A Mercury in Aquarius planetary placement inclines you towards being very observant, thoughtful and methodical in your communicative approach. You are not one to shy away from a debate, in fact, you often provoke them because you are able to sense other people's biases and you are unafraid of calling them out on it. You could be a great politician or lawyer for this reason. You do sometimes push people's buttons with your eccentricity, bluntness and your somewhat detached nature. People find it hard to appeal to your emotions because you usually lead with reason and logic. Some may find themselves intimidated by you because you seem so confident, to the point of seeming to have a superiority complex. In reality, you are just very much in your brain, and you do not always have the patience to break down your thinking to others.

Those who are able to understand how you think find themselves fascinated by your endless repertoire of knowledge. You have a quirky, sarcastic and witty sense of humor which makes people laugh. Nothing about you is ordinary, especially when it comes to the way you absorb and retain knowledge. You are not one to stick to a set schedule -- you just make your own based on your priorities and interests. Although from an outside perspective you can seem all over the place, you are actually very organized -- even if that system is one that only you can understand. Your mind is bent towards the progress of society, so you are inclined towards scientific ventures and exploration. You seek to break the limits of what is possible and create a whole new world. You have a vision of what the world has the potential to be, and you are willing to work endlessly for social reform once you feel passionate about a certain cause.

Stubbornness is a huge attribute of a Mercury in Aquarius placement, but it often works out in your favor because you refuse to let anyone walk over you. You are a natural leader, speaker, writer and educator. People look up to you for guidance, and you know how to draw out other people's best talents. You tend to be more loyal to a cause than to an individual, however, and you will often seek people's friendship for companionship, but also as a way to help advance with a humanitarian or social mission. You have a knack for using the written and spoken language to draw people on your side. You are extremely convincing, and you are able to see the big picture when most people are stuck on the minute details. Always reaching and exploring beyond, you will only feel satisfied once you have used your eccentricity, wisdom and intellect to spark a revolution.

Moon Trine Mercury: This mostly harmonious aspect between the two planets inclines you with a very swift, imaginative, and expansive mind. You have great powers of memory and concentration. You are an eternal student, and a talented writer. You think very rationally and logically, and this placement indicates that traveling and communicating with people from different cultures will be an essential part of your life. There is a natural balance between your emotional nature and your intellectual nature; your heart and your mind are often in agreement.

Venus in Capricorn

Venus is the Planet of Love and Beauty. It symbolizes our approach to personal relationships, as well as our creative urges. With your Venus placed in Capricorn, you have a very serious approach to love and relationships, and you have strong ties to your financial affairs. You will not invest yourself in a relationship if you do not sense that the person is worth investing in. You treat your relationships similarly to your professional endeavors. You are along-term thinker and planner. Loyal and committed by nature, you will rarely partake in casual flings.

It takes you quite sometime to open up to someone. You are highly discriminating about who you allow into your life. You do not trust anyone 100% and you can be seen by others as calculating, practical and self-protective. You want your love partner to be your rock. You need someone you can depend on. However, you are very self-dependent so it is more a matter of emotional precaution than a matter of absolute necessity. You strive to be with someone you can rule the world with.

You are driven by thoughts of material success, wealth, and power, and it is likely that you are well on your way to achieving those goals, but you don't want to be lonely when you do. You will respect your partner more if they are "self-made" and have succeeded on their own rather than if everything was handed over to them. You find well-earned prosperity and a steady income very attractive, for it shows you that your partner knows the value of hard-work, dedication, and commitment, which to you are all crucial factors in relationship.

You have an old-fashioned approach to love, that includes settling down in your cute little home with your perfect match and darling children. Once you finally open up to your partner, you will transform their world with your earthly, sensitive, generous, and supportive nature. You are a very dependable friend and lover.

You attract people who are focused on their own passions and who are as hard-working as you are. They are often impressed by your wit and your personal dedication. Your ideal lover is someone who accepts how independent you are while also being there to support and motivate you to reach all your goals. You long to be part of a dynamic power couple, and you cannot be with someone who is unambitious or shallow. Your lover must also respect your need for solitude -- you can be a loner and you need your space.

Your isolating nature is actually very attractive to your partners, because they like the fact that you do not cling to them emotionally but rather leave them guessing what's on your mind. You are not one to be extremely demonstrative in love (you are not the biggest fan of public displays of affection), but you will always demonstrate your love practically, through physical action. Deep down, you are very romantic and you long for a partner to share your life with. You simply do not wear your heart on your sleeve because you feel vulnerability and you are self-protective.

With a Venus in Capricorn, your energy is healing and comforting. You prefer having your loved ones over at your home rather than always going out yourself. Your home is your haven and you tend much attention and care to it. You are very future-oriented in your relationships. Once you are committed, you like to know where things are going, so you often plan future adventures together far in advance. It can take a while for you to let down your guard, but once you do your lover will discover a side of you few people will ever know. Those who are willing to face the challenge of genuinely getting to know you are in for a treat.

Your loyalty is immeasurable, as is your sense of responsibility for your partner. However, you expect your partner to be able to support you financially, even if you are well-off on your own. You are turned off by laziness in your partner, and you need someone with as much drive and dedication as you do.

A Venus in Capricorn placement indicates that your high standards and your acknowledgement of your self-worth will help you attract meaningful and long-lasting partnerships, even if it takes time to find the right one. You don't play games when it comes to love, and the fact that you do not let just anyone get close to you often pays off in the end because you don't waste your time with frivolities. Your suitors have to prove themselves to you over a long period of time, and only once they have gained your trust will they gain your love. Your Venus placement indicates successful relationships with partners whose Sun, Moon or Venus signs are placed in Scorpio, Virgo, Taurus, Gemini, Aries and Capricorn.

Mars in Leo

Mars is the Planet of Action, describing how you outwardly express yourself through what you do. In your birth chart Mars is placed in Leo. You naturally attract attention, effortlessly. Leo is ruled by the Sun, and that abundance of powerful and magnetic energy follows you wherever you go. With this placement, you are not one to sit around idly as a spectator watching the world go by... you're on stage, front and center, blowing everyone away, having them wonder, "what will you do next?" You come off as incredibly sure of yourself, even though it isn't always the case.

You love the praise and the glory, and that's why you work so hard and relentlessly. But what will you do when the glory is gone? That is the life lesson of one with a Mars in Leo. You can rush ahead fiercely and combatively all you want, but remember that it can be lonely at the finish line. Leo is a Fixed sign, and you are endowed with even more passion, pride, and perseverance than most individuals.

With Mars being placed in Leo, the result is a sizzling, fierce, unconquerable warrior and winner. All that energy can be difficult to contain, so make sure you have a healthy outlet, preferably physical, to blow off steam. But in all honesty, your schedule is probably more than enough to keep you active, because you're always on the go, doing something new, discovering someone new, keeping the energy up and alive.

Beware of your ego, as it can get in the way sometimes. You are a natural leader, but you can sometimes be overbearing with those who are trying to help you. Don't let your pride get the best of you. On the other hand, you are extremely loving and giving with your loved ones. You can even be generous to a fault. Loyalty means everything to you. You also get jealous easily, but people can hardly tell because you hide it behind a cheerful and upbeat demeanor. You just want to have fun and live big. You are very much aware of the responsibilities and the sacrifices that will come with the pursuit of this goal, and you are willing to do what it takes to be successful and recognized.

Mars in House 10: When Mars is placed in the Tenth House of Career, this is considered one of the most positive placements for the Planet of Action. It almost guarantees your professional success, because everything you do is centered around advancing in your career or personal vocation. Due to this placement, you and your family are likely to become very wealthy. You are full of courage, passion, determination, and an unrelenting drive for success. You would excel in any field you set your mind to, but especially engineering, activism, politics, law, medicine, psychiatry, or any position where you are function as a leader. You seek a career which requires an abundance of energy, and one where you are always on the move, feeling useful and needed.

Sun opposition Mars: With this tense planetary aspect, you can sometimes feel inclined to view life as a challenge. You may have a “me against the world” mentality which causes you to feel the need to prove yourself and who you are. You may feel an internal clash of energies -- a part of you enjoys introversion and solitude, while the other feels the need to break free from society while also making your mark on it. This energy can manifest itself outwardly in your life through competition, arguments or debates with people who think differently than you are. You may have power struggles with authority or coworkers at times. You seek to be in a position of authority and power, but this can also cause a fair amount of resistance. The potential downfall of this placement would be that your intensity and aggressiveness may push away those who have your best interests at heart. On a positive level, this energy can manifest itself positively in a romantic relationship if you allow yourself to explore how your intensity can be turned into passion. Your partners may find themselves magnetically attracted to the very same energy that you work so hard to control. One thing that is clear from this aspect is that you have very strong, somewhat obsessive desires which fuel your action and impetus in life. Your ideal partner will be strong like you, but not dominating. This person will help tame your more dangerous urges and help soothe your inner restlessness, nervousness or anxiety. This aspect can cause you to act recklessly, often without even realizing that you are doing so. But once you become aware of the manifestations of this aspect, you can work towards finding harmony and more balance overall. As you evolve, and particularly during your thirties, you will find this aspect to be more of a blessing than a burden, because it will have caused you to be forged from fire and grow stronger.

Mars sextile Ascendant: With this harmonious aspect, you are a very determined individual, and you often fearlessly express yourself. You tend to be very impulsive and you do not always think things through before acting or speaking. No one ever knows what you are going to do or say next because you have an unpredictable streak. You always seek action and stimulation and you do not like to sit still for too long. You also have a tendency to say things that you really should just keep to yourself, so this aspect may challenge you to learn the art of discretion. Your friendships are really important to you and you seek your friends' support and approval. You are a very hard-working person and when your mind is set on a certain goal you do whatever it takes to accomplish it. You have so much energy, passion and enthusiasm for life -- it is highly contagious.

Jupiter in Sagittarius

Jupiter is the Planet of Luck and Good Fortune, and with your placement of Jupiter in Sagittarius, you attract the most luck to you when you are kind, warm-hearted, generous, open-minded and honest. You have a very philosophical and higher-minded approach to life which is very inspiring to those around you. You truly believe that the sky is the limit, and you approach life with a contagious optimism and positivity. It is your positive attitude which allows you to push past life's obstacles. You know that there must be a storm in order to see a rainbow.

You would make a great teacher, mentor, or guru due to this placement. You encourage others to reach their highest potential and to not let anyone tell them they cannot do something. If you pay attention to your inner self, you will realize that you have a very strong intuition which can guide you towards the best path for you.

Try your best to not try to do too much at once or else you may feel burnt out and physically exhausted. You love a good challenge, and you are not afraid of dangerous situations. You live for an adrenaline rush of excitement and novelty. Some of your friends and family members find it difficult to keep up with you because you have so much energy! It would be wise for you to partake in sports or a competitive outlet.

With a Jupiter in Sagittarius, it is almost impossible for you to not travel during this lifetime. You find traveling to be emotionally, physically and spiritually nurturing. You become a better person the more you step outside of your own front door and out into the unknown. You have strong personal values which you abide by without doubt or fear, and people respect you for that. You are also extremely generous with your loved ones. You openly share your time, energy, and resources with them. You are not extremely attached to money because you have a "money comes, money goes" philosophy towards it.

Your lesson in this lifetime is to use your enlightened wisdom to enlighten others and have them join you on your spiritual journey. However, you must not become so narrow-minded in your philosophies and ideals that you ostracize or ignore those who do not have the same view point as you. It is by accepting all points of view that you will truly evolve and change the world.

Jupiter in House 2: When the Planet of Luck is placed in the Second House of Money, it typically generates success with monetary, financial matters, or anything that has to do with what you view as your “personal value” or self-worth. Many people will view you as financially lucky, but they don’t know how much you work to get what you deserve. You have a strong, mostly positive self-image, which motivates you to work harder and achieve higher. The potential downfall of this placement is that you may become overindulgent or greedy. However it is likely that you will be grateful and acknowledging of Jupiter’s blessing, causing you to be very generous and expansive with those you love.

Moon opposition Jupiter: With this tense planetary aspect, beware of being overly generous. Give and live within your means, and take caution to keep your financial and emotional life as organized as possible. You tend to put all your eggs in one basket; you can sometimes be overly optimistic when it comes to your possibilities -- this behavior can backfire and lead to income loss or unnecessary expenses. Manage your resources wisely. It is great to be generous, but try your best not to over-extend yourself. Not all financial risks will pay off in your favor.

Mercury sextile Jupiter: With this harmonious planetary aspect, you are optimistic and you tend to see the big picture. You are very perceptive and your observations of the world around you are precise and accurate. You have a very noble and fair individual, always rooting for the underdog and fighting for the oppressed or underprivileged. This aspect indicates that you would make a great teacher because of your love for sharing and communication knowledge. You are extremely open minded and tolerant, a trait which will help you advance in life. You are highly attracted to travel, and you naturally want to interact with people from foreign cultures.

Jupiter square Ascendant: With this planetary aspect, you have a tendency towards over-indulgence and going to the extreme. This aspect can manifest as lacking self-control and quickly using up your large stores of energy. It impels you towards having huge ideas that you hope to capitalize on, but you must develop them in a disciplined and constructive manner in order for them to pay off. Your ultimate goal is to enjoy everything you worked so hard to gain; you do not mind working tirelessly if it means you will be able to reap the rewards (which is why you look forward to retirement and financial security). This planetary aspect indicates that you have a very big heart and that people may take advantage of this trait of yours without you realizing it. You tend to take on too many projects at once, which can be overwhelming. Acquiring a better sense of balance and not biting off more than you can chew is essential with this planetary aspect. You are an excellent team-worker, although your personal objectives sometimes dominate those of others.

Saturn in Pisces

As I continue to analyze your chart, I am moving away from the personality centered planets (Sun, Moon, Mercury, Venus, Mars, Jupiter), and more into the generation-centered planets (Saturn, Uranus, Neptune, Pluto). You still feel the personal influence of these last four planets, but not as strongly as the first six. It is rather more evident with your generation as a whole, and the influence of these planets in your chart represents what you and millions of others born around your time period are meant to accomplish in this lifetime. Saturn is often regarded as a “tough” or “bad” planet, but I like to view it as a healthy challenge. It’s a planet which will test you continuously throughout your life. With Saturn, you have no choice but to grow up and accept life’s realities for what they are.

With your placement of Saturn in Pisces, your life lesson is to use your sensitive energy constructively and positively by learning to love yourself and heighten your self-esteem. You must not be afraid to trust your subconscious, because it has a lot to tell you if you just listen to it. This can be done through practices such as meditation or yoga. Since Saturn is a planet which tests your strength and will through hardships, this placement may leave you feeling vulnerable or defenseless after a few trials. This can also lead to you focusing more on the negative sides of things rather than the positive. The life lesson is to overcome this tendency, and to use your emotions to protect you from destructive forces.

Throughout your lifetime, you will need to learn your past, accept it, then let it go. That goes for anything from hidden family dramas to complex emotional relationships with past lovers. Saturn will reward you for hard work, but it is not something that happens overnight. Learning to let go is something you will have to work on every day. Once you develop more emotional understanding and compassion, you will find letting go less difficult, and eventually you will feel free. Immerse yourself in a creative and artistic outlet in order to help you achieve Saturn’s ultimate lesson.

Blend the sensitive compassion of Pisces with the intense energy coming from Saturn’s current stay in Sagittarius, and you will be more inspired than ever to get out there and do something! But it’s not enough to want to do something -- you must also act on this impulse. Saturn is all about eliminating what no longer works for you and making room for what does. Be honest with yourself, and only allow the best and most fulfilling people and circumstances in your life. If it does not bring you happiness and personal growth, then let it go.

Saturn in House 5: Saturn is known as the most challenging and difficult planet of the zodiac. But in your chart, it is placed in the Fifth House of Children, which is a mostly positive, happy house with an emphasis on expressing pleasure and creativity in life. Since Saturn and the Fifth House are basically opposites, you may sometimes have more intense and serious outlook on pleasurable activities. For example, some may see you as a downer or party-pooper, but that is not the case at all! You simply take life more seriously than most, and you are often focused on work. The lesson of this placement is to encourage you to focus on more fun aspects of life. You don't always have to be about work, work, work and no play. Learn to relax and unwind.

Moon square Saturn: Due to this frictional aspect between the two planets, life may feel very emotionally difficult or challenging for you. You take on too much on your shoulders, and you fail to realize that you are only one person, and you are only human. If you do not overcome your tendency to overextend yourself, then you will only create more unresolvable problems in your life. This placement indicates that you may be emotionally inhibited, keeping your deepest emotions and fear deep inside you. You must find a healthy way to release your feelings -- even if it is simply by writing your thoughts in a private journal. You have difficulty trusting others, and that is why you find it hard to open up. You live in fear, and that may consume your emotions. You may have lacked love and affection as a child, and you are unconsciously repeating the same pattern with your loved ones now. You must move forward and allow love to enter your life. Do not view love as something you should be afraid of or reject. You deserve to be loved and cared for unconditionally and with respect.

Uranus in Capricorn

Uranus is the Planet of Unexpected Change, but Capricorn, the sign where this planet is placed in your chart symbolizes structure, routine, and work. What happens when these two contrasting elements are combined? Interestingly, your ambition becomes stronger than ever.

You are a natural entrepreneur, and you will most likely succeed at any job which puts you in touch with the public. Beware of being too restless, erratic, stubborn or impulsive. You can be level-headed and down-to-earth in the way you deal with change in your environment, and you treat others with respect and equality.

You are a natural at handling power, which is why you would make an excellent leader or boss. You tend to see trends before they have even started, and you aren't afraid of switching things up if that means you'll get closer to your goals. You and your generation have the power to make great strides of advancement for mankind simply by asserting yourself independently and daring to stand out from the crowd. This placement indicates that you would do well in fields related to communication and writing.

Uranus in House 4: With the Planet of Change placed in the Fourth House of the Home, you have a highly independent streak, and you are sometimes inclined to withdraw into yourself. You have powerfully healing energies, although you do not always express them naturally.

Uranus square Ascendant: This aspect indicates that you have a rebellious nature. You tend to do the opposite of what is expected of you. You despise rules or societal expectations. You prefer living life on your own terms. Even if this gets you in trouble with authority, you will not compromise your core values in order to satisfy someone else's. Even while growing up, you may have been the odd one out and you may have gotten in conflicts with family members.

Professionally speaking, you are more focused on doing what you love than counting how much money you are making. You need to be in a versatile, exciting, and constantly changing career which speaks to your heart. You are not the type of person who will be satisfied working a nine to five shift your whole life. You are a humanitarian at heart, and you seek to devote your energy to giving back to humanity and helping others reach their highest potential.

Neptune in Capricorn

Neptune is the Planet of Mysticism & Illusion. Capricorn is associated with hard-work, patience, structure and discipline. Together, this planet and sign combination of Neptune in Capricorn leads you into a realm of fantasy and illusion where you are encouraged to follow material pursuits in hopes of enjoying the pleasures of life and accumulating wealth and financial stability.

Professionally, this placement makes you a deep thinker and an excellent problem-solver. You dream of power. You want to be on top, even if you have no idea how to get there. You are gifted at using your imagination to come up with a practical idea and then monetize it. The downfall of this placement is that you tend to harbor secrets and you can sometimes be a bit melancholic.

You are a deeply spiritual individual. You have a tendency to shut yourself away from the world from time to time. Music is very inspiring for you, and often uplifting. You may sometimes have an idealized vision of what your future should be and it can be difficult for you to accept reality for what it is.

Neptune in House 3: With Neptune placed in the Third House of Communication, you may not excel at traditional academics but you will always learn using your own unique style. You tend to daydream and get lost in your own thoughts, causing you to be a little aloof on some days. You drift into a world of your own making. This placement heightens your intuitive abilities. You understand and communicate with others on a psychic, empathetic and compassionate level. Focus your energy on completing the task at hand, or else you may be full of inspiration but lack the motivation needed to complete it.

Uranus conjunct Neptune: This aspect indicates that you have a powerful imagination and strong fantasies. You are drawn to the world of music, fantasy, and religion. You have a precise intuition, so much so that you sometimes have psychic moments. The fields you choose to explore are often unordinary, metaphysical and somewhat esoteric.

Neptune square Ascendant: This frictional planetary aspect indicates that you are very sensitive, and you take other people's criticism and judgment to heart. It also generates a passive attitude towards your competitors. You may withdraw yourself from competitive experiences because of an inherent fear of failure. You must develop the confidence needed to stand up for yourself and to be sure of your own abilities. Although you are full of much creative potential, you are sometimes inclined to simply dream up imaginative ideas and fantasies rather than actually act upon them. You are a highly idealistic person, which can set you up for disappointment when those you love fail to meet your high standards. You tend to view them through rose-colored glasses so you are especially susceptible to being hurt if they fall short of your expectations. Your mission with this aspect is to center yourself and your goals. If you spread yourself too thin or try to do too much at once, you will not get anything accomplished at all. You must stop comparing yourself to others or undermining your own worth. You will not be amazing until you believe yourself to be amazing, so changing your thought process and strengthening your self-esteem is key with this planetary aspect. Because you are so attuned to ! other people's emotions, your ideal career would work with the public. You are likely to be a humanitarian, fighting for the underdog and helping find solutions to help the underprivileged.

Neptune opposition Midheaven: With this planetary aspect, during your childhood it is likely that you were very much aware of the emotional vibes going on between your family members, including your parents or siblings. If you were surrounded by tense or chaotic energy, you may still feel the effect of your surroundings presently, leading to feelings of inadequacy, self-doubt, or insecurity. This can affect you on a professional and social level, because you may inherently feel incapable of fully putting yourself out there. This aspect indicates that you may have a troubling relationship with one of your parents; perhaps they were not psychologically strong at one point in your life, and this has left you seeking emotionally and spiritual support elsewhere. If this is not the case and you felt supported by both parents, this aspect may have manifested by you holding one of your parents on a pedestal and highlighting their strengths over another parent. This may have been done subconsciously, but it leads to you comparing those you meet to your idealized parent rather than seeing them as their own person. In either case, this aspect indicates that you are more sensitive than most human beings, and your strong senses may lead you to explore and deepen your connection with spirituality and your intuition.

Pluto in Sagittarius

We have arrived at the final and furthest planet: Pluto, the Planet of Transformation. With your placement of Pluto in Sagittarius, you love exploration and the idea of expanding your mental, physical, and spiritual horizons. You seek to experience life on countless realms, and you will get frustrated if you have to stay in the same place at the same time for an extended period of time.

You make the most of the many opportunities life presents you with and you are always looking for opportunities to advance or try something new. You strongly hold on to your personal value system and you help it guide you throughout the course of your life. Freedom is of the utmost importance to you. You do not like feeling controlled or smothered, even by those you love. If people give you the space you desire, you will be quite generous and kind with them.

You have a very optimistic perspective on life and your confidence in reaching your goals is what will propel you to make them come true. You must learn to be open to other people's beliefs, even if they do not match your own. Ideally, your partner will have the same outlook on life as you do, and they too would be a lover of travel and adventure. You are an eternal student; even if you do not pursue higher education, you will be self-taught.

With Pluto in Sagittarius, you are a very philosophical and idealistic person. You love dreaming up new ideas, concepts, and creations that others have not thought of yet. You seek to be on the move, because routine can be boring for your restless spirit. Your mind is oriented on the future, and as you evolve, you would rather think of all that you can accomplish rather than stay fixated on past errors. You are seen as an inspiration to others because you keep smiling, even in the face of obstacles or adversity. You do not always think before you act, and you can take dangerous risks, but for you, life is meant to be lived with passion or not lived at all.

Pluto in House 2: With Pluto placed in the Second House of Money, you have an intuitive approach to earning and keeping money. You find yourself attached to material items and it maybe difficult for you to let go. Deep down, you fear poverty, which is why you work so hard to ensure your financial security. You must understand that true wealth comes from within. It is by finding peace within yourself that you can weather the storms life may throw at you. Still, you are dominated by a need to be in control of your financial world. Positively speaking, you are very generous and loyal with those you love. Your home is their home. But you do not open your doors to just anybody -- they must be trusted and you must feel that they have earned their welcome. You do not like people who act as if everything is due to them. You would succeed as a financial advisor, because of you're resourceful in dealing with money and topics of self-worth.

Moon opposition Pluto: With this tense aspect, you may experience emotional blockages. Your feelings are not always expressed smoothly or easily, which can lead to you keeping them all inside. This isn't healthy, because your powerful emotions need some sort of outlet in order for you to stay balanced. You keep yourself under tight control, as well as your relationships, and this can be a hindrance. You are highly suspicious, and people tend to walk around on eggshells when they're around you. Your emotions are unpredictable, making it difficult to understand you. To evolve, you must let go of your need to control yourself or your partner. You must accept them as they are rather than be constantly disappointed because they fall short of your vision of a “perfect partner”. Release all the stress and resentment you may have stored up inside. Practicing meditation or taking deep breaths can help release inner stress; learn to let life flow.

Mars square Pluto: This frictional aspect indicates that you have a combative and aggressive attitude which comes out when you find yourself in conflict. You can be egocentric and self-centered -- two traits which you must seek to overcome. It may be difficult for you to feel continuously motivated. One of your lessons with this placement is to master the art of cooperation and diplomacy. Power struggles and hard-headedness will not help you advance.

Uranus sextile Pluto: This planetary aspect indicates that you can be intensely radical, especially when it has to do with the government or politics. You are one to object against all forms of social injustices and to call out politicians for being hypocritical. You are able to see past superficial facades and expose corruption for what it is. This can make you a wonderful politician yourself, because you will refuse to succumb to the manipulation techniques and deceits that most officials use to gain power. You will use your power for positive purposes rather than selfish ones. This aspect indicates that you may become a widely known activist.

Midheaven in Cancer

We’ve covered all the planets, but there is still an important element we must talk about: the Midheaven (or Medium Coeli). The Midheaven is the zodiac sign that was at the southern highest point of the horizon at the time of your birth. It symbolizes your innermost goals, ambitions, and your ultimate career vocation.

It is by looking at the Midheaven that we can judge your professional goals and talents. It represents where you are most likely to shine and develop most of your skills. The Midheaven symbolizes your deepest dreams, your true aspirations in life. Your Midheaven is what you want to be “when you grow up”, even if it contradicts what you’ve told yourself you should be.

If you aren’t in the right job, you will know it based on how you feel... You won’t want to get up in the morning. You’ll always be tired or complaining. You will daydream of doing anything else but the work that you are doing. Your Midheaven points you toward the direction of your true life path and helps you refocus on what’s right for you. It brings forth your natural talent and encourages you to pursue it with energy and vigor.

With a Midheaven in Cancer, your mission this lifetime is to find emotional fulfillment by being connected to your career and the work you do. This placement suggests that you are a natural healer. It is likely that you may have parented yourself in some way; you may not have found the help and guidance you seek externally, so you choose the internal route and focus on your emotions, sensitivities, and emotions. Because you are so sensitive to the thoughts and feelings of those around you, you make a natural psychologist or guru. You have much better luck solving other people’s problems than dealing with your own. People love, respect, and appreciate you mostly because you let them be themselves. You love them for who they are.

Although you seem calm and even innocent on the outside, you will fight for what you want. You are a strong believer in the expression “hard work pays off”. You are reluctant to change, yet you often inspire those around you to change things up -- you are somewhat of a paradox. However, you also need your alone time to rejuvenate and recharge. You are social, but also introverted. You can be moody and difficult to figure out, but in the end you must have an outlet to express your emotions or else you will hinder your creativity, progress, and evolvment. Your career and reputation are of the utmost importance to you, as is your family.

The main thing you must watch out for is self-doubt. You have the power to achieve whatever you dream of, you just have to believe in your dream. Your thoughts create your reality... so think positively! And most importantly, live in the now. You can be nostalgic, and sometimes sentimental about the past.

Uranus opposition Midheaven: This planetary aspect indicates that you are highly individualistic and you choose your own path to take rather than conform to society's ideals. Emotional freedom is especially important to you. If those around you are clingy, possessive, territorial or jealous, you will feel a strong need to be away from them. You may not be very fond of intense PDA or affection, even from family members. This stems from an early childhood experience where you did not feel as though you could rely on feelings of nurturing or protection. You therefore learned how to deal with everything on your own rather than depending on anyone else. This aspect indicates that your mother may be very independent outside of her maternal role, and you have learned from her attitude. If you become a parent, you will have a very free spirit and be very accepting of your children. It is likely that as you evolve, you disassociate yourself from past familial traditions and you seek self-expression by your own means. You may never have felt as if you had roots somewhere, so you make the world itself your home, with no limitations. Independence is one of your strongest ideals, and you will teach your children and loved ones how to take care of themselves rather than being reliant on other people.

Pluto trine Midheaven: This harmonious aspect indicates that although you may frequently change career paths, you will always end up pursuing something which brings you tremendous joy and pleasure. Ever since you were young, you had a vision for what you wanted to become and you knew how to utilize your talents in order to make it come true. You carry this knowledge within yourself even presently as you pursue your vocational path. A lesson with this aspect is to not only think of yourself, your personal goals, and your desires, but of those outside of yourself.

North Node in Scorpio

The North Node is a symbol of what you are inherently meant to achieve in this lifetime if you dedicate all our energies to it, and if you are aware of your own potential. It represents your destiny. With your North Node placed in Scorpio, in this lifetime you will learn to release yourself from attachments (especially in love and friendship) in order to achieve through spiritual growth. You are very self-reliant, sometimes to a fault. Security is important to you, sometimes to a fault. You hold on tight to those you love, sometimes to a fault. Notice a pattern?

Scorpio is a sign of extremes, and although it can be largely beneficial, it can also be destabilizing. With this placement, you have to loosen your grip on what means the most to you, and ironically, that is when it will come to you -- and it will stay. You will learn the true meaning of partnership and intimacy (it is not based on possessiveness and jealousy but on selflessness and trust), and you will then teach it to everyone you know. It is by sharing the spiritual insights you learn throughout the course of your existence that you truly contribute to the world you live in and help make it a better place. Your intuition is your anchor for this life-long mission.

With a North Node in Scorpio, you are a powerful truth-seeker. You may seek comfort in material pleasures, but the life lesson for this placement is for you to be supremely satisfied through spiritual realizations. Instead of hoarding useless items, you will eventually be the keeper of the Universe's most powerful secrets. Your mission is to use your deep powers of introspection to find the regenerative powers which lay dormant within you. Your destiny is to transform yourself completely into the person you always knew you were. This requires ridding yourself completely of all the "junk" which holds you back or weighs you down. By fully understanding yourself, you are making the first step towards truly understanding others.

The potential downfall of this placement is that you may sometimes be resistant to change, or in denial of the need for it. You may try to hold on to material comfort or financial security out of fear of feeling powerless or threatened. Resisting the inner change that is necessary for your growth is very costly. It is wiser for you to go with the flow rather than constantly fight it. Welcome change as a way of life and you will see all the wonders it will present you with.

North Node in House 1: With the North Node placed in the First House of the Personality, the most important lesson for you to learn is to trust and love yourself first. Your instincts and your intuition are powerful, but sometimes your logical mindset may cause you to doubt them. Don't. Let go of societal expectations and tune in to your personal expectations. Do not fear living or being alone. Learn to embrace solitude. Be your own best friend. Avoid depending too much on others for approval. Find it within your own self. That is the key to successfully evolving. With a North Node in the First House, you may sometimes seek for peace and balance outside yourself. You are highly expressive, creative, popular, and imaginative. You want to write, to act, to share your wisdom with anyone who will listen. But sometimes you must slowdown long enough to tune out the outside world and quietly listen to what your own heart is telling you. After all, that is what is most important.

Putting It All Together

Gilad,

It was a pleasure putting together your birth chart reading. It is fascinating and powerful. In Astrology, the Sun, Moon and Ascendant's placement in your chart make up your primal triad. In your case, the Sun is in Aquarius, the Moon is in Gemini, and your Ascendant is in Libra.

The first impression others get of you is that you are charming, social, fair, and balanced. You have much ease in social situations; you appear to be a diplomatic and laid-back person. It can be difficult for you to make a set decision sometimes, or at least it appears that way from an outside perspective. You are able to see the pros and cons of any given situation and you are a natural diplomat, often seeking to please everyone at once. Your lesson is to put yourself first.

The essence of who you are becomes more evident when people get to know the person behind the mask. Upon getting to know you better, one will realize that you live by your own rules and your own expectations. With a Sun in Aquarius, you are extremely intelligent, witty, humorous, and social. You tend to rebel against authority figures and set off on your own path. People will be intrigued by your unorthodox and unique ways. Some will want to join your team, and others will just stare at you from a distance. Either way, you are not one who goes through life unnoticed.

Your Aquarius Sun is the nucleus of your personality, and your Moon in Gemini adds an even more flexible and airy energy to your primal triad. Your emotions are highly intellectualized, and you may sometimes try to avoid them altogether. You love absorbing information by meeting and connecting with new people. Traveling, teaching, learning, and communicating are your fortes. You have a dual nature; no one truly understands who you are. Sometimes you are very extroverted and social, others you are moody and withdrawn. Your moods change like the wind, and so do your opinions. You are able to easily see and understand both sides of a situation, making it difficult for you to pick a certain side.

You are easily bored, so you always keep yourself busy by doing more than one task at hand. The only problem is that you get distracted easily, and you often move on without having finished what you originally started. Your primal triad is composed of three air signs. You live in a world filled with innovative and creative ideas, calculated perceptions, intriguing social contacts, and a highly intellectual, progressive and unforeseen way of approaching life.

When three or more planets are placed in the same sign or house, it is called a stellium. Having a stellium in your birth chart is powerful, because it is a laser-like focus on the themes of that sign, and studying and understanding your stellium can help you advance towards self-improvement. In your birth chart, Venus, Uranus and Neptune are all placed in the Capricorn constellation.

With a Capricorn stellium, you are endowed with a serious mindset, as well as practical ambition and steady reason. This stellium indicates that you are down-to-earth and logical. You can be trusted and depended upon. Once you make a promise or start a project, you follow it through until the end. Your mind is focused on personal and universal success. You're a warrior.

With a Capricorn stellium, you know how to make firm decisions and stand by them. Aquarius and Capricorn mixed together make an unbeatable combination. You are a born leader and winner. You are likely to be a CEO at some point in your life, or self-employed. You lead by example and people find themselves instilling their trust in you. You are a great listener, counselor, and a loyal and fair friend. However, you must make an effort to step outside of yourself and your own needs or goals, even when you are motivated by your current projects. Being vulnerable and sharing what's on your heart will greatly benefit you, even if it takes time.

Your second and final stellium is placed in the Fourth House of the Home (Sun, Mercury, Uranus). A Fourth House stellium deeply intensifies your attachment to your home, the past, your traditions, your family, and your personal security. This indicates that you may take your emotional energy from this stellium and invest it in professional interests which are still linked to family life. You may become a real-estate agent, an archeologist, a historian, a social worker, or work in a group home.

Whichever profession you choose will be linked to your family and your culture; you often put the needs of those you love above your own, and that will be the case within your career. You love feeling useful, loved and needed. What you must learn to overcome with a stellium in the Fourth House is your tendency to live in the past. You learned and experienced quite a lot as you grew up, and your family is a constant source of inspiration for you, but you must remember to live in the present moment. You can't repeat the past, so live in the now.

Although Astrology is here to help guide you towards your own personal legend, in the end, it is only you who has the power to fulfill it. You have free will, and you can choose any path you want to. Your birth chart does not dictate your fate, it simply shows you all the possibilities within yourself which may lead you to discovering it.

Your chart indicates that your mind is always buzzing with ideas, concepts, revelations and inspiration. You feel more comfortable in the world of thoughts than in the world of emotion, although you also have a highly attuned sense of intuition which can help you make decisions that logic alone will not allow you to do. You know a little bit about everything, and you seek to know as much as you can about everything. You know how to take a simple thought and turn it into a tangible product, and this makes people seek your services, your advice and your guidance. Your family, your roots, your traditions and your past are some of the most important themes in your life. You are extremely loyal to those you love, and although you can be quite social, you are also private and selective when it comes to whom you allow in your inner circle. Because you have so many ideas and aspirations, you do not like feeling distracted by futilities such as small talk or idle banter. You would rather direct that energy towards innovation and change. You are unafraid of disrupting the status quo -- in fact, you will be known for doing so.

You are someone who has very sure goals and ambitions, and because you know how to zero in on what it takes to be successful, you are likely to achieve quite a notorious amount of success and perhaps even fame in your lifetime, most likely connected to technological or scientific ventures. Your Mars in Leo placement is in the Tenth House of Career and Success, and because Jupiter, the Planet of Luck, is currently in Leo, you may find that 2015 is actually a wildly successful year for you professionally. You will be able to make the right connections and the right time, which will give you the exposure you need to be launched into a field which showcases your many talents, and you will feel appreciated and valued for your dedication and hard work. Your mission is to not allow your ego, pride or stubbornness to stand in the way of your upcoming rewards. You should challenge yourself to know when to ask for help, when to be humble, and when to compromise. Once you accomplish such virtues, you will be unstoppable.

Gilad, you are here to help others claim their freedom of expression. You see the world in a very unorthodox and progressive manner, and it is up to you to help others open their eyes to this "truth" you have discovered. Since we are now in the Age of Aquarius, you are a representative of your zodiac sign and you must help lead a worldwide initiation into a world where we live based on a universal consciousness and where we leave our lower, ego-based tendencies behind. Whether you become a technologist, a writer, a politician, educator, or a business person, the work you do will leave a significant impact on the world around you and you will be largely recognized for your contributions. You are a genius, Gilad, and the Universe is lucky to have you.
